INNOVATION IN ENDODONTICS

Overview
This course is brought to you by some of the leading endodontic practitioners in the UK. It aims to provide you with information and practical experience on natural teeth with TF rotary NiTi files and filling with warm GP using Dr L Stephen Buchanan’s technique; the ‘Continuous Wave of Condensation’ via the Elements Obturation Unit.

Key Learning Objectives:
■ Case selection
■ To understand the key elements of shaping root canals
■ To understand how rotary NiTi files can improve RCT’s for the GDP
■ To understand the importance of cleaning the root canal system in preparation for shaping and filling
■ The importance of a three dimensional fill

Length Determination
‘Where to measure to and with what?’ will be discussed. Electronic Apex Locators will be available for use.

Rotary Nickel Titanium Files
The course will explain recent modern advances in file design and how these improvements provide for a safer more efficient shaping of root canals.

Warm Three Dimensional Filling Techniques
The ‘Continuous Wave of Condensation’ technique invented by Dr L Stephen Buchanan will be used to demonstrate the importance of micro debrudement of the root canal system with NaOCl.

Extracted Teeth
Each delegate will be required to provide accessed teeth. Preferably two severely and two moderately curved canals.
